PSALM 100.

A psalm. For giving grateful praise.

¹ Shout for joy to the LORD, all the earth.

² Worship the LORD with gladness;
come before him with joyful songs.

³ Know that the LORD is God.

It is he who made us, and we are his;
we are his people, the sheep of his pasture.

⁴ Enter his gates with thanksgiving
and his courts with praise;
give thanks to him and praise his name.

⁵ For the LORD is good and his love endures for ever;
his faithfulness continues through all generations.

Psalm 100

“It is all ablaze with grateful adoration, and has for this reason been a great favourite with the people of God ever since it was written. “Let us sing the Old Hundredth” is one of the everyday expressions of the Christian church, and will be so while men exist whose hearts are loyal to the Great King. Nothing can be more sublime this side of heaven than the singing of this noble psalm by a vast congregation.”

—C. H. Spurgeon

Psalm 100

“We find lingering in it notes of the same great harmony. It breathes the same gladness; it is filled with the same hope, that all nations shall bow down before Jehovah, and confess that he is God.”

—J. J. S. Perowne

Psalm 100

“This Psalm contains a promise of Christianity, as winter at its close contains the promise of spring. The trees are ready to bud, the flowers are just hidden by the light soil, the clouds are heavy with rain, the sun shines in his strength; only a genial wind from the south is wanted to give a new life to all things.”

"The Speaker's Commentary," 1873

Psalm 100

Imperative Actions to be Taken

- Shout, Serve, Come
- Know
- Come, Testify, Bless

Psalm 100

1. For He is the best of beings. It is a privilege to serve Him.
2. For His commandments are not grievous.
3. For He is your Savior, as well as Creator, your friend, and your Lord.
4. The angels, with so much greater knowledge than yourself, know no reason why they should not serve Him with gladness.
5. In serving Him you serve yourself.
6. You make your faith attractive.
7. You get good training for Heaven.

Psalm 100

“Singing, as it is a joyful, and at the same time a devout, exercise, should be a constant form of approach to God. The measured, harmonious, hearty utterance of praise by a congregation of really devout persons is not merely decorous but delightful, and is a fit anticipation of the worship of heaven, where praise has absorbed prayer, and become the sole mode of adoration.”

—C. H. Spurgeon

Psalm 100

Final Three Imperatives v. 4

- Come — Enter His Gates
- Testify — Give Thanks
- Bless — Praise His name

Psalm 100

“God is not mere justice, stern and cold; he has bowels of compassion, and wills not the sinner's death.”

—C. H. Spurgeon

Psalm 100

Final Confession in v. 5

For the LORD is good and his love endures for ever;
his faithfulness continues through all generations.
